no one was seriously injured.

At noon a detail of sixty men from each of the companies of the Fourteenth regiment under command of Captain W. L. Garca, relieved the first battalion of the Thirteenth regiment, Major Cochran, and aft rathe goard was posted, preparations were made for starting the cars. Twentytwo motormen were reported as ready to start, but only ton cars were sent out. The ground in the land-date venuty was quickly chared, a small detail working the crowd back to the co-tward, and a couple of mount d police working them into the opposition direction. The little force succeeded admirably, which showed that but few belligerouts were present.

At 1:45 p. m. ten cars were ready, and as the clock struck 2 both civic and military forces made the move. A car rolled out of the shed and was switched on the track leading down to Fulton berry. It was surrounded by twelve guards under Lieutenant Little, of Company E. Fourteenth regiment, and preceded by Sergeant Reinels and six mounted policemen began its journey. Captains Gorman and Ennis with a hundred patrolmen followed. The military halted in their picket line, and the police accompanied it down the avenue. The other nine cars followed at intervals of a few minutes.

All went well for thirty minutes, when the police reserves were seen to halt. A detachment was then sent ahead in the patrol wagon at full speed. The mob had taken possession of the building in front of a row of brick buildings under conerruction and hurled it over both tricks. None of the cars on the lines where the strike is in facee were run after o o'clock last night in response to the request of the police authorities. It was feared that an outbreak might possibly occur in East New York, where the mob and the military clashed Saturday night. Reinforcements were sent there yesterday, and it was reported that the First brigade of the N. G. S. N. Y. had been ordered to report at the armories in New York, equipped for field duty. At the military headquarters in the half of records here nothing was known of the issuance of such an order.

Captain French, who was hurt in a row on Broadway, attended the meeting with his face decorated with court plaster. He said he was not very badly hart, but that the cuts were painful.

In accordance with orders from Governor Morton, the First brigade reported for duty in this city at 7 o'clock this morning, and the men were at once placed on outy at different points along the lines of the railroads. There are now 12,600 men under arms. The action of the governor was taken on a request made to Governor Morton by Mayor Schlien, of Brooklyn.

... CHAEL DAVITY DEFENDS US.

The Irish Leader Writes of Our Superiority Over Great Britain.

Loxpost Jan. 21 .- Mr. Michael Davitt, the well known Irish look a has written a column but r to The Chronicle protesting against the wholesale thatges of corruption Luried by Mr. Benn and others against the American people. He asks whether such men as Bayard, Cleveland, Harrison and Merten must be dubbed corrupt because a few politicians of the baser kind baye traded upon their representative posttions, and whether every city in the United States needs a Lexent committee, because New York and Chicago have exhibited some instances of gross manusipal corruption, invariably followed by the punishin at, or o-tracism of the guilty persons. Mr. Davitt adds:

"Ir is a sup-rlative absurdiry. Seasoned ign rance and oneclt make the English enter impervious to ridicule when he rides the high horse of British superiority."

He says the faults of American public life are those of popular bribery. The American government may be all that it is alleged to be, but it does not govern 270.50,000 people, a quarter of whom exist on an average income of forty rupes yearly, with their salt toxed in the bargain. America's sins are small when compared with England's doings in India, Ireland and elsewhere.

The Chronicle, in an editorial, advocates the taking to heart of Mr. Davitt's warning, and says: "We would willingly give a good many British state-men for one Abe Linc Jn."

They Were Met by Officers When They West to Rob.

MoMENCE, HIS., Jan Cl.-An attempt to Job the Exchange bank, of this town, yesterday morning would have been successful had it nor been for detectives from Chicago, aided by the town marshal and assistants, who after a flerce battle with the robbers, succeeded in capturing Weed Love, of Momence, who became separated from the rest of the gang in the confusion of the fight. There were two and possibly three others in the gang, and they got away in the darkness. Later one of the burglars, named Schaff, was captured and Prospects Against a Revival of the Currency Question.

PROPOSED NEW PUBLIC EUILDINGS.

To Force a Vote on Chicago's New $1,000,-600 Building-Pottsville, Pa., Paterson, N. J., and Comberland, Md., Also in Line for New Structures.

Washington, Jan. 21.-The prospect in the senate this week is for more talk than accomplishment. Whin the senate adjourned on Saturday the senate's attitude towards Hawali, the proposed recession from the senate amendments to the income taz appropriation, and the Nicaragua bill all occupied in different ways, technically considered, the position of unfinished bush

The income tax question has the right of way by virtue of its being a part of an ap-propriation bill. The Hawaiian question will in all probability be considered, if not crowded out by the debate on the in-come tax. Senator Hill is expected to stand out for his income tax amendment. The Nicaragua question still holds its place at the head of the calendar for consideration daily after 2 o'clock. Senator Morgan said today that he was still hopeful of securing a vote on this bill before the close of the week, but if there should be many intersuptions he may again be disappointed. Senator Turple has the floor for a reply to Senator Morgan, and is expected to make one of his characteristic speeches. There will also be other addresses on this subject before the vote is finally taken.

Senator Cockrell expected to ask to have the fortifications appropriation bill taken up as soon as the urgent deficiency bill is out of the way, and thinks there will be no difficulty in getting it through during the week.

The friends of the bankruptcy and territorial admission bills are growing anxious concerning the fate of these measures, and are beginning to be apprehensive that time may not be left for their consideration if the Nicaragua bill be not soon disposed of.

The present prospect is against a revival of the financial and currency question in the senate during the week, but much will depend upon the action of the committee on finance at its meeting tomorrow and also upon the attitude of the house of representatives. This promises to be a busy and important week in the house. The program arranged by the committee on rules before the departure of Speaker Crisp for Asheville, N. C., Saturday night (where he expects to remain a week or two) contemplates the consideration of the public building bills on the calendar, to be followed by the Indian appropriation bill now under consideration, the sundry civil and the agricultural appropriation bills. The decided to bring in a closure rule to secure a vote on the bill for a new public building at Chicago to cost $1,000,000. The improvements for the New York public building are provided for in the sundry civil bill. The other public building bills, six in number, are as follows: Newport, Ky., $100.000; Camberland, Md., $75,000; South Omaha, Neb., $500.00; Paterson, N. J., $250.000; Brookline, Mass., $75,000; Pottsville, Pa., $51,000. The program as arranged for the week may be subject to change in case Mr. Springer, chairman of the committee on banking and currency, decides before the end of the week to bring forward his new measure. He has been in constant consultation with Secretary Carlisle for the past week, and is very sanguine that concessions can be made to the silver men which will induce them to withdraw their opposition. He expresses the opinion that he would bring forward the modified bill this week, and that it will pass. This opinion, however, is not generally shared by the Democratic leaders of the house, most of whom do not besitate to say that they believe all hope of currency legislation at this session is dead. It is also possible that the resolution for the impeachment of Judge Ricks may be before the house before the end of the week, but the fact the committee on judietary decided on Friday to reopen the case is interpreted to mean a delay which will render any attempt to push the case against him at this session abortive. It is not improbable that Mr. Boutelle will attempt to secure consideration of his

She carries 2.900 stands of arms and about 75.-600 rounds of ammunition to representatives of the government.

Aluminum War Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Jan. to -Probably with a view to giving scope for the latest ideas in naval con-truction. Secretary Herbert has modified the advertisements for the three torpedo boats to be constructed, so as to permit of the substitution for steel of any metal or alloy in hull or machinery. It is understood that the change has been made at the instance of bidders who desire to submit proposals to baild the boots of aluminum bronze. Another reason for the change may be found in some recent French experiments, wherein a great saving of weight was made by the use of aluminum for hull construction.

Owenshone Ky., Jan 21.-The big New Orleans packet, the State of Missouri, struck a rock on the Indiana side of the Ohio river, near Alton, Ind., Saturday night and went down in lifty feet of water. She gave a heavy hurch forward and sank rapidly. Four of the passengers were picked up near the Kentucky shore and brought here by the steamer City of Owenshoro. One of the pilots telegraphed his family here that they had a hard time getting ashere, but that no lives were last.

EIGHT LARGE ONES AND SEVERAL OTHERS OF LESS IMPORTANCE.

The Most Extensive Clerical Force is Emplayed In New York, but as a Supply De put the Chicago Warehouse is Much More

"Most persons know that the United States y accument speeds a great deal of money then the Indians every year, but year few know how and for what reason it is laid out. I neet confess that Uncle : in: gave me this job. Now I are learning something new and interesting about it every day, int I hardly expect to be some letter perfect before I leave

The speaker we willim. Dewitt C. Creates, ex-angle of Chicago and ar present superimondat of the Indian warehouse in that hustling town. Although not in any sense headquarters of the Indian department, the Chicago warehouse is the largest supply depot thereof, and its administration includes, of necessity, close attention to an enormous amount of routine detail work. Mr. Cregier was having a confab with one of his inspectors when I asked the questions calling out the remark quoted at the beginning of this article, but he dismissed the matter for the time being and explained the workings of the Indian warehouse system to me in his own crisp fashion.

"You see," he said, "when Uncle Sam took possession of the larger part of the territory belonging to the noble red man it was thought best to leave certain areas untouched, where the said red man-who, by the way, is almost anything but red, as everybody knows —can live and bunt and fish and enjoy life as he likes. This was arranged after many powwows with many tribes, the agreements between which and the government are known as the Indian treaties. In making the treaties the head men of the various tribes stipulated that in return for the splendid territories given up by them Uncle Sam should issue every year a lot of rations and a lot of general supplies. Then there are J. D. WOOD quantities of supplies needed by the Indian schools. The Indian warehouses, or supply depots, are among the results of these treaties.

"I came near saying that it would be easier to tell what the government does not furnish to the Indians than to give a list of the things that it does, but on second thought I hardly believe that would be correct. In fact, I am unable to give a list of either. At this moment I fail to recall anything whatever that is not at one time or another included among the Indian supplies, and to tell you what is would require more time than either you or I have at our disposal. But if you will go with Mr. Whitney, my right hand man, he will enlighten you, to some extent, by exhibiting a few of the samples now on hand. The variety may not be so extensive as you will expect after what I have said, owing to the fact that the present is the dull season, but you may come across things here, even now, that you had never supposed were supplied to the Indians.

The ex-mayor was right. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning when Mr. Whitney began the exhibition. It was quite noon and apparently he had only begun when I told him I had seen enough to convince me of the statement's correctness. There were stoves of many sizes and patterns, fir for burning coal and fit for burning wood. There were needles and crowbars and schoolbanks. There were fellies for wagon wheels and bar iron to be forged into tires. There were surgical instruments and lanterns and parlor lamps with ornamental shades. There were pumps and shoes and stockings and gloves. There were no mowing machines in the warehouse, but they are among the articles farnished, and Mr. Whitney showed an interesting variety of plows pans and cans and buckets were visible ent in New York and Henry M. Gaines in great profusion. There was an abundance also of blankets and shawls and other products of the loom.

"These things," explained Mr. Whitney, "are delivered to the 50 or 60 agencies and schools as ordered, and there is an enormous amount of red tape

INDIAN WAREHOUSES | connected with every requisition. For about the size of two fingers from tho hand of a full grown man, "here is a package worth about 4 cents. It contains two or three lamp wicks and was ordered some time ago for one of the Indian schools. Resides the correspondence relating to the order, invoices in duplicate, triplicate and multiplicate have been necessary. After delivery there will be receipts without end. The elerical work alone rendered necessary in order to supply the school with these wicks has been many times as costly as the wicks themselves, and it would be money in Uncle Sam's pocket if some one had gone out from the school and recklesaly bought the wicks for cash. However, it is no doubt true, as claimed, that it will not do to begin buying supplies in that way, no matter how small the order, as is would make a precedent that might lead to no end of jobbery. As it is now, all the goods bought for the Indians must be passed upon by inspectors be fore delivery, and in this way some sort of check is kept upon contractors. It would be a pleasant thing to say that all contractors for goods wanted by the Indian bureau are honest, but unfortunately the facts are otherwise."

As Mr. Whitney talked we approached a man who, with coar removed, was vigorously opening box after box, from which he took out overalls and blouses and examined them most critically. The man was an inspector, and his suspicious of the quality of the garments were aroused by the discovery that one pair of overalls was not up to the standard of the sample submitted by the maker before the contract was secured. Nearly every garment examined proved to be defective not only in the color and texture of the goods, but also in the making. In fact, they were inferior in nearly every respect. The seams were ill sewed, the pockets-formed by sewing patchlike pieces of cloth on the garments-were put on wrong side out, and the stitches, instead of being protected so as to wear well, were certain to give out after a very few days ac-

It was this let of made up goods that this inspector and Superintendent Cregier were discussing when I began to ask

It must be said of this particular contractor that be displayed less shrew duess than the average tricky apple vender, who packs inferior fruit in the middle of the barrels and that of good quality at the ends. If this contractor had put garments equal to the samples at the tops of the cases, the inferior ones would probably have gone undiscovered, as, for economical reasons, the entire contents would hardly have been examined. there being but five inspectors attached to the Chicago warehouse and they greatly overworked.

Not all the goods sent to the agencies pass through the warehouses at all. Sugar, for instance, and flour and cured meats, plows, stoves, wagons and all sorts of bulky and heavy things are inspected either at the agencies or at the place of manufacture. This saves both time and heavy transportation bills. Fresh meats for the agencies and schools are bought alive, as a rule, and sometimes these cattle are shot by soldiers for the Indians, who then skin and dress the carcusses themselves. Nails, of which the Indian department uses many tons yearly, are like the other heavy goods with regard to inspection.

The requisitions for this year's supplies are now being prepared by the agents. After completion these are passed upon by the Indian commissioner and confirmed by the secretary of the interior, after which bids are advertised for and the awards made to the lowest bidders. These advertisements will be issued some time in April, and by the opening of warm weath 4 the hard work of the inspectors will began. Having the summer time they are fairly driven with work, and some of them have to travel thousands of miles every season. By the beginning of winter most of their work is finished for the year, except as to hams and shoulders, bacon, pork, corned beef and the like. A large proportion of the cured meats is bought in Chicago every year, and therefore the Chicago inspectors are obliged to spend a good deal of their time at the stockyard packing

The term "lowest bidder," used above, does not always mean simply the one who offers his wares for the smallest price. Every bidder must furnish samples, and the quality of these samples is always considered, together with the cost. A full line of samples is furnished to the warehouses by each bidder securing a contract, and it is by means of comparison with these samples that the inspectors are able to pass upon the goods as furnished.

Although the New York warehouse is not so large as the one at Chicago in point of capacity, yet in the busy season it has more employees, the number being between 30 and 35 as against perhaps a dozen at Chicago. This is because of the excess of clerical work done at the eastwith the soil is cultivated. Tin cups and ern city. H. D. Graves is superintendchief clerk.

In addition to the warehouses in the two largest cities, there are others at St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Sioux City, Omalia and San Francisco, besides smaller ones in other places. M. I. DEXTER.

Sho is readily picked out, but by a close observer by her great night. She lives generally for clout five years, but her term of the varies in different individunl, from two to five or six and in rare instance cash to seven years. If any other queen, in teled—and sometimes one or two mer ere, pretty soon afterthe rightful rater as sails the rival claims ant in a life and death battle, the "stinger" being plied vigorously like a death dealing sword by both contestants, while the hive looks on in mute interest to see the i-riers the battle. This is almost decided in favor of the assuitant. She is then the undisputed queen and is so regarded. Yet the great company of "worker-" are in some senses the real governors, and the hive is a great social democracy. If ty any mi-chance the queen is kill to then the "workers"who are undeveloped temales-go to work to produce a new one. The egg they select for the trial is attended to with the same care, and the embryo bee is fed with the same selected food, as in the case of the egg that had produced the legimnate queen. It makes a queen, and she serves in that capacity.

Except in swarming time, the queen never leaves the have, only on the one occa-ion or her bridal tour. Selecting some one for her husband, she invites him out to go with her-and their connubial relations are carried on entirely while on the wing in the air-like the chimney swallow's. The bridegroom never returns. He drops dead, and the queen returns from her one and only aerial excursion a fully feeundated bee, ready to begin her great life work of egg laying. BRUSSELS AND TAPESTRY.

The Difference Between These Two Kinds of Carpets Explained.

By placing a brussels and tapestry carpet side by side a electross and sharpness are noticed about the brussels carper which are absent from the rapestry. In the latter there is a mistiness about the color-, and the pattern lacks that sharpness and delicacy which tharacterize the former. This is due to the process of manufacture. A brussels is a yarn dyed, and a tare-try may be described as a printed fabric, but the printing is done upon the garn before the process of weaving.

The whole method of manufacture is most ingenious. In the making of a five frame brussels no fewer than 1,280 ends of face yarns are required for the weaving of one piece of standard quality, each frame consisting of 256 hobbins, and 256 ends only can come to the face as each pick of the pattern. Therefore 1,024 ends of yarn are hidden in the body of the fabric. There are many qualities of tapestry, but in the production of the standard quality only 216 ends of face yarn are required, instead of 1,250, which shows at once that the hrussels carpet has the great advantage of being thicker, softer and altogether a more durable cloth apart from other advantages which it possesses. There is a limitation in the number of colors used in a brussels. In tapastry there is no limit. In the brussels the whole of the colors used show a more or less striped appearance at the back of the fabric.

In a tapestry they do not show at the back at all. This fact is made use of by householders in purchasing earpets, this being about the only way the average person can tell the difference between them. In order to pass off tapestry as brussels some indenious makers have resorted to the striping in a regular mauner of the backs of the former. The stripy effect in the latter is broken and irregular. A casual observation of the clearly defined character of a brussels pattern should enable a buyer to distinguish between the two fabrics.-Furnishers' Gazette.

Well, Bixby had a dog he laid great store by because 15 belonged to his wife, and when he took a notion to go to California and travel for a big San I minersco grocery house he asked me to take care of the dog for him, because it wasn't possible for him to take it along with him. I tell you Exply thought a 1c' of that dog, and when he told me about how he hated to leave it the tears actually came to his eyes, and I kind of smued a little myself. The dog was at a dog fancier's in an adjoining town, and I was to send for it as soon as I conveniently could do so. It was a mastiff—at least I the wals he said so-about 2 years old, and Licoy said it would be mighty useful about the place as a watchdog. I needed a watchdog, but that wasn't what I was doing this for. It was simply to please to Ereby. Well, he got away at last, and so the train pulled out for the west he wayed Lie hand to me and called back not to he'et the dog. And I didn't. The very heart day I sens one of my stable boys over after it, and he brought it buck in good shape. And what a dog it was! As 5 2 as a calf and would cut four times as much. And what a savage brute! We had to the bird up in the back yard the first night, and after that we kept him in the -table mostly, for the hired girl was scared to douth of him, and the boys used to put his meals down in front of him and run as if they had set fire to a fuse of a dynamite birth At the cad of the first week that dog

Eight Thousand Troops on Buty in Brooklyn-Guarding All the Lines that Are Being Operated-No Serious Trouble,

BY UNITED PRESS.

PHOOKLYN, Jan. 21,-Several New York city regiments arrived early this morning, and there are nearly 8,000 soldiers on duty. The Brooklyn regiments, numbering 3,000, are on guard at the various car stables and power houses, while nearly 5,000 mer, of the First Brigade, made up of New York city regiments, are on cuty along the lines of the various trelley roads. The strikers and their sympathizers gathered in groups about the stables and along the car routus, early this morning, but up to neon, no collisions with the troops well reported. A number of cars were run out of the car houses and r. -sed between files of soldiers. The strikers cut a number of trolley wires during the night.

Rigid military discipline is being maintained, to-jay, and the utmost secrecy is observed. At the headquarters of the military the press is

Orders have been issued to the soldiers to disperse all gatherings in the vicinity of the railroad companies property that number over three persons, and in case of the refusal of such gatherings to disperse when ordered, the soldiers have been instructed to use their bayonets. In carrying out this order the soldiers were compelled to almost charge a band of strikers who were standing at the entrance to the strikers' headquarters. Nearly two months ago the Board of Water Commissioners made a re port to the Common Council of a survey and estimate of cost of a plan for an increased and permanent water supply, the report being the result of investigations made in obedience to be sentiment expressed at the last meeting of taxpayers. Accompanying the report was a request that Council cali a meeting of taxpayers to consider the plan proposed by the -xpert engineer employed by the

The only action taken by the Common Council was the adoption of a resolution forbidding the Water Commissioners to expend any more money in surveys or acquiring water rights or privileges.

It seems to have escaped the minds of members of the Council that it is not optional with that body to call a meeting or not, and that in ignoring the request of the Board of Water Commissioners they are violating a mandate of the city charter.

Section 17 of title 12, of the charter, provides that in case the Water Commissioners deem that the interests of the city require the expenditure of money, in enlarging, altering and improving the water works, they shall make a statement thereof, stating the nature of the proposed improvement and the probable cost thereof, "and it shall thereupon be the duty of the Common Council to cause a notice to be published and a special election or appropriation meeting to be held."

It will be seen that it is not within the province of the Common Council to pass upon the plan of the Water Commissioners for an increased water supply. That is a matter for the taxpayers to settle and it is the duty of the Council to give them an opportunity to do so.

AMENDMENT. The Common Council is to hold a special meeting this evening, for the public discussion of a proposed amendment to the city charter abolishing epring elections and changing the time for the election of city officers to general election day in the Only one argument is arged in favor of the change, the specious one of economy—the saving of the $2,000 or thereabouts that spring elections now cost.

The abolition of spring elections and the consolidation of local and general elections on the same day would be a long step in the direction of making bad local government pos sible and the best local government impossible. In the heat and turmoil of a general election, when party spirit is rampant, the fitness of individual candidates would be lost sight or, and unfir men would be elected to city offices, not because the people were deceived as to their real characters, but hecause, blinded by party zeal and passion, they would not see what kind of men they were choozing to rule over them.

In New York and Brooklyn misrule was perpe uated for years, because of the union of local and gereral elections. Citizens in the excitement of a general campaign were indifferent as to the candidates for local offices. Democrats voted for those labeled Democrat, and Republicans for those labeled Republican, and politicians fattened on public spoil and the people were robbed and pillaged without mercy.

Citizens who desired good local government for New York and Brooklyn have long realized that the only hope of permanent_relief from the misrule of rings and political banditti was the separation of the local from the general election, but they have not been strong enough to bring about the reform which they have so eliquently and so ably advocated.

It is proposed by those who advocate the change in our city's charter to substitute for a system which has worked well; one that has made possible and been largely responsible for the grossest scandals and the gravest crimes in municipal government. While good citizens in our cities are clamoring for relief from a vicious system, it is proposed to foist this same vicious system on this young city for the nominal reason that it will save a little money. Economy is sometimes too expensive a luxury. A single year's misrule, under our present charter, for separate elections for ten years. Because ring-ridden and bose-ruled Newburgh proposes to abolish spring elections and deliver itself bound hand and foot to the spoilers is no reason why Middletown should follow its bad example.

might cost our city enough to pay

There is no politics in this queetion. It is one of good government, ur State government were wise when they recognized the distinction that existed between the administration of local and general affairs and put six months between the town and general elections. The experience of years has proved the wisdom of the system they adopted. There is already too much politics in the administration of our city affairs. The proposed change would give us still more of a bad thing. What this and every other city needs is an honest, efficient, economicai, businesslike administration of its affairs. It is the burden of city taxes that weighs upon and presses down the home-owner; State and county taxes are but a trifle in comparison. Yet it is proposed that we shall merge our greater and more direct interests in those that affect us more remotely.

The sensible thing for this city to do is to let well enough alone. If elections cost too much under the present law, -and there is no doubt that they do-let Middletown unite with other cities in a movement to secure a modification of the present cumbersome and expensive election law so far as it applies to municipal elections. Let us not make the mistake of trying to escape from a lesser evil by adopting a greater one that has been a plague to an 'a burden on wan were cleaned out last week, their every city on which it has been foisted.

BLOOMERS.

Before bicycling became a craze with women there had never been even so much as the hadew of a quarrel between Mr. and Hrs. Cranston. But after Mrs. Cross a bought a bicycle and learness to redewell there was a disagreement which came very near breaking up a happy home. They had been married ture years, and they had often said that their Larraed lite had been one long honeymoon.

Tom had yielded so readily to all of his wife s whichs that she had unconselously gamed an epinion that her word was to him like the laws of the Medes and the Persians.

But this nion was all knocked to pieces when one morning as they sat at breakfast Mrs. Cranston said:

"Tom, I'm going to order my dressmaker to make a suit of bloomers for me today. I do so much bicycling now that skirts are too heavy for me."

"What!" shouted Tom, dropping his spoon in the oatmeal. Mrs. Cranston also dropped her spoon and looked in surprise at her husband. "I said," she repeated, "that I was going to get a bloomer suit. What strikes you as particularly strange about "What strikes me as particularly stranger" he repeated, with a wid look in his eyes. "Do you think for one instant that I will allow my wife to race around town looking like a lithograph of a variety entertainment? Not much.?

"But, Tom," said Louise in a tone that had never failed to persuade her husband that she was right and that he was wrong, "I don't see why I can't have bloomers. Mrs. Kynaston and Mrs. Bentley and Mrs. Jennings all wear them, and their husbands don't object, so why should you?" "It makes no difference why I should," said Tom doggedly. "I don't intend to have my friends on the exchange coming to me and saying, 'Tom, I see your wife's wearing bloomers.'

Not if I know it."

"But, Tom," she began, "I"-"Oh, don't talk any more nonsense, Louise," he broke in. "I am sick of it. You shan't wear bloomers, so that settles it." And Mr. Cranston, whose appetite had been taken entirely away by his wife's amouncement, got up from the table and started for the door.

"Goodby!" he called from the ball, and then the door slammed, and Louise sat at the breakfast table wondering how it was that she had never before known that ber husband had a will of

She had told all her friends only the day before that she would be wearing bloomers within a week, and when they had suggested that her husband might object she had said:

"What! Tom object? Why, he never objects to anything." And now Tom had absolutely refused to allow her to wear them, with a facial expression which showed that he would not stop short of the divorce courts to prevent it.

Finally she arose from the table and went to her room.

She had an idea which, she thought, if properly carried out, would gain Tom's consent to the wearing of bloomers. She wrote a hurried note to her dressmaker ordering a bloomer suit of a pattern which she had already selected and then donned her old bicycle suit to pay a call to Mrs. Kynaston, who had a husband who did not object to bloomers.

She told her troubles to the vivacious Mrs. Kynaston, who was not sparing in her sympathy for the poor friend who had a narrow minded husband who objected to a convenient bicycle dress.

"Why, how foolish of him!" she said. "I don't believe the poor man has ever seen a proper bicycling costume. I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll all go bicycling this afternoon and come back by your house at just the time your husband gets home, and he will see what a bloomer suit looks like."

And so the bicycle party was arranged, and when Thomas Cranston arrived at his home that evening he saw five women riding in front of the house, and four of them were in full bloomer costume. The fifth, who were shirts, was his wife.

He was not so badly shocked as he thought he would be, and he wished that he had not been so decided in his refusal of his wife's request, but he made up his mind that it would be unmanly to yield after his remarks of the morning, and so, with a bow to his wife and her companions, he went indoors and began to dress for dimer.

That night Louise again broached the subject of bloomers, but her husband silenced her by saying:

"Now, see here, Louise, don't speak to me about bloomers again. You may go in for women's rights if you lake, and you may wear standing collars and men's waistenats, but you shall not wear treasers, even if bayeling does justify it in your eyes.

"Trousers!" eried Louiso indignantly. "Who said mything about fronsers? I was talking about bloomers." "I know you were," said Mr. Cranston, "and piece don't talk about them any more. The tired of it, and I won't In ar it mentioned again. " The key! merhang when Mr. Crans-

"Now, then," said Louise as she went up stars, "I'lls e if I can't make Mr. Tom change his opinion about bloomers. That promise of his was the very thing I worted."

The hour board for by both came at last. Tom emered the house and rushed to his room to put on his dress suit.

"Oh, Tola!" Louise called while he was dressing. "Come down here. I want you to redeem your promise of this morning and do me a favor." "All right!" he calle le "I'll be down it's real mean." Mrs. Cranston steed up, holding a pattern in one hand and an unfinished dress in the other, and looked as though she were about to burst into tears.

"Oh, come new. Louise," he urged impatiently. Can't you see that your request is trivial and unreasonable, and I must go to that dinner?" The tears that had seemingly been held back with such an offers new be-

Mr. Crausten looked grave. He did not want to less that dinner, and he didn't want to break his promise. "How long will this fitting business last?" he questioned after several moments' silence, broken only by the sobbing of his wife. "About half an hour," she replied, brightening up a little.

"Well, then, hurry up," said Mr. Cranston, throwing off his coat and standing erect. "Bring the thing here. And so the gown was put on Mr. Cranston, and Louise dropped on one knee and began punning the draperies in a hurried manner.

"You see, Tom," she said as she tucked up the first fold and surveyed it with a critical eye, "this is of the greatest importance to me, and I know you will help me out."

"Um," was the only answer her husband made. He was looking straight at the clock and wondering how it was that the minute hand was moving so fast. He thought that the clock must be out of order. He pulled out his watch and saw that the minute hand there moved with the same railroad speed, and it was 7:30 o'clock.

"Are you anywhere near through?" he asked impatiently. She shook her head and turned her attention to the dress. Tom fumed as he noticed that it was now 7:45. "Have you any idea how soon you will be

BREAK IN THE WATER MAIN-

A Cement Pipe Gives Way Under the Pressure of Highland Lake-A Report of a Leak in the Reservoir Started,

Saturday afternoon, Superintendent VanDuzer, of the Water Works, noticed the pressure guage in his house fall very suddenly, and knew at once that there was a leak, and a big one, somewhere. He started out and finally located it in the old cement main at the end of Monhagen avenue, where the roads to Howells and the reservoir meet. He shut off the water as soon as possible and is putting in a section of iron pipe to-day. The rush of the water from the broken main created a miniature flood above the Summit and the report that there was a leak in the reservoir was started and spread rapidly, several persons making that report at the office of the commissioners several hours after the water had been shut off.

This is the original main which for many years carried all the water from Monhagen Lake to Middletown. Later a 12-inch iron main was laid.

Since the new reservoir was built and the 20-inch main laid to Monhager Lake, the old mains have been used to convey the water from Highland Lake. The pressure is stronger than from the old reservoir and the cement main gave way. There isn't much of the old coment pipe left in the ground now and it will be a good thing for the city when it is all gone and replaced with iron pipe.

COLEVILLE, N. J.

A Very Broad Smile - Visits His Boyhood Home - Narrow Escape From Fire-The sick List.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY. -Irving Brink and Lovatus Wilson returned recently from Pike and Wayne counties, Pa., where they had been after cows. They say prime cows are scarce and high.

-Joseph Ayres has smiles as broad as a corn basket. It's a boy and Joe is happy.

-Mr. John Ayres and wife, of Corevland, Bradford county, Pa., recently visited relatives near this place. This was the first time Mr. Ayres has visited the scenes of his childhood days in twenty years.

-Doa't out ashes in a wooden barrelor an out house, near any other building. Peter E. Carpenter, the other morn ng, awoke to discover that his smoke house was on fire. As it happened in the morning the neighbors soon came and had the fire under control. If it had occurred in the night, and as the house is only about thirty feet away from his residence, we can imagine what the damage might have been.

-Mrs. Christopher Van Auken is slowly recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

-Mrs. Phebe Brink, of this place, is sick with pneumonia at her son, Enos's, at Mt. Salem.

-Wm. P. Van Gordon, of Libertyville, is able to be around again after a serious illness.
